

CREWS MEET
ON THAMESYale Captured Varsity Fouroared Race To-day

BY A FULL BOAT LENGTH

Thus They Made Up for Harvard's Two Wins in the Preliminary Events of
Last Night—The Big Race
Late To-day.

New London, Conn., June 25.—Yale and Harvard divided honors this forenoon, the Yale varsity four-oared crew defeating Harvard on the Thames and the Harvard freshmen beating Yale. The Yale varsity rowed a steady swing and ended a full length ahead of the Crimson. The unofficial time was: Yale 10:33½, Harvard 10:43½.

The signal of last night had not entirely blown itself out this morning, and a spanking breeze was kicking up the course in a style to cause fears that a postponement of the morning races might be necessary. It had been announced that should the water be too rough this morning, the two forenoon events would be rowed this evening after the varsity contest.

The Sylph, flying the flag of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, was joined this morning by the yacht Mayflower with the members of the president's family aboard, President Roosevelt having abandoned his plan of being present owing to the death of ex-President Cleveland.

As the day advanced, however, conditions improved, and the varsity four-oared crew got away at 10:31 o'clock. Yale quickly established a half length lead, which she gradually increased to three. Nearing the finish, Harvard spurred desperately and partially closed the gap; but could not quite make the distance up.

The Harvard freshmen won their event by about two and a half lengths. The official time was: Harvard 9:38½; Yale 9:47½.

THE BIG RACE LATE TO-DAY.

The big varsity event will be rowed late to-day.

After the races last night, Captains Ide and Richardson tossed for the choice of courses for to-day. Harvard won two out of the three tosses. In the first, the one for the varsity choice of positions, Harvard won and took the western course, and thereby escaping the eel grass. In the second toss, Yale won and chosen the eastern course for the four-oared race, the first to be rowed. Richardson again won the third and chose the eastern course for his freshmen eight.

Last night Harvard won both the freshmen and four and the graduate races.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN FIRE ESCAPE TESTF. G. Engel's Patent Breaks and He is Hurled 60 Feet in Springfield.

Springfield, Mass., June 25.—Fred G. Engel, inventor of the Engel automatic fire escape, jumped from the sixth story of the Court Square hotel to his death yesterday afternoon while demonstrating the value of his invention.

Engel came here from New York a week ago and was endeavoring to interest the board of trade in forming a stock company for the manufacture of his apparatus.

Last Friday in the presence of several thousand people he jumped from the eighth story of hotel Worthy and descended in safety.

Today he planned to jump from the Court Square hotel in order to demonstrate his invention to the fire commissioners and Chief Daggott. Owing to the rain the commissioners were not present, but Engel decided to experiment for the benefit of Assistant Marshal Charles L. Wright and several bystanders.

The apparatus consists of a wire cable which unrolls as a person descends. This cable is attached around the body with a chain. Engel weighs 210 pounds and as he let himself out of the window the chain gave way and he fell 60 feet, striking on his right side. He was killed instantly.

GRIFFITH RESIGNS.

As Manager of The New York American Base Ball Team.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Clark Griffith, manager of the New York American baseball club of the American league, yesterday tendered his resignation to Frank Farrell, owner of the team. Griffith asked to be relieved from the management of the team several days ago and following a conference with Mr. Farrell before the game with Philadelphia, he yesterday tendered his resignation to take effect at once. Griffith said that he was disappointed and felt that he should get out and give Mr. Farrell a chance to try another manager. He said there was no discussion among the players.

Effort is mentioned as a probable successor to Griffith.

VERMONT MILITIA
MADE SHORT STOPThey Were Barred From Burlington Saloons By Special Request of The Burlington License Commissioners.

Burlington, June 25.—The boys of the First Regiment, Vermont National Guard, visited the city yesterday en route to Pine Camp, N. Y., where the army maneuvers are being held. The first train, carrying the companies from the South arrived at three in the afternoon and the remainder of the regiment was all in town at 5:30 o'clock. The regiment, which comprises 750 men, left for Pine Camp in the early evening, the first of the three sections pulling out at 7:30 over the Rutland railroad to Malone. The remainder of Company M acted as a protest guard at the different license places in the city during the afternoon and early evening and at intervals the pavements resounded with the tread of the guard going to relieve the sentries in front of the third parlor.

All the afternoon in this city it was a case of standing on the outside and looking in with the National Guard men. Some of them were very thirsty, indeed, after their long ride from Brattleboro, Bennington and other towns, but the best they could do was to drink from the park fountains and sip soda at the drug stores and candy kitchens.

The local board of license commissioners had requested the owners of the local licensed places to decline to serve any soldier in uniform during the day.

SHOCKED TO DEATH
BY ELECTRICITYKarl Colchien of Bellows Falls Falls The Victim—His Brother Was Knocked Down By Current While Trying to Rescue Karl.

Bellows Falls, June 25.—Karl Imay Colchien, a German mechanic, employed by the Bellows Falls & Saxtons River electric railroad was electrocuted by a live wire here yesterday afternoon and two other employees, George and James Smith, narrowly escaped the same fate.

The accident was a most peculiar one. Colchien left the car barn and a few minutes later was discovered lying dead across the tracks a short distance away. There was nothing apparently to indicate the cause of death and as the crowd gathered James Smith picked up the sag of a fallen telegraph wire and started to throw it aside.

He at once received a shock that prostrated him and was unable to release his grasp from the wire. His brother, George, standing by seized him around the waist and by a desperate effort succeeded in dragging him free, receiving a shock that felled him to the ground.

Examination of Colchien's hand showed deep burns and it is supposed that in trying to remove the fallen wire he received a shock sufficient to electrocute. The wire, a telegraph one, carries but a low voltage and it is thought an electric light wire crossed it some point on the line.

Colchien was 23 and unmarried, he was a skilled mechanic and with his parents had been here from Germany but a short time.

Remains to Lie in State—Marion and Esther Will Attend the Funeral.

Princeton, N. J., June 25.—Arrangements for the funeral of ex-President Cleveland to-morrow afternoon will not be completed until the arrival of President Roosevelt, who is expected here at noon to-morrow.

Mrs. Cleveland continues to bear up well. The city is beginning to fill up with visitors, come to pay the last tribute to the dead president, and the police force has been enlarged to handle the crowd. Esther and Marion, the only children who will attend the funeral, are expected to arrive this evening.

The simplicity of the funeral will be marked. Only those invited will be permitted to enter the grounds. A death mask will be taken to-day. Mrs. Cleveland refused to have the remains lie in state. The coffin is quarter-sawn oak, simple in design. A plain silver plate will bear the word, "Grover Cleveland, March 18, 1837, June 24, 1908."

Mr. Cleveland's body will be buried in Princeton cemetery in the family plot, where lie the ashes of Ruth, the eldest of the Cleveland children, whose death was a sad blow to her father.

MILITIA MEN DOING WELL.

Making Very Creditable Practice With The Big Guns.

Boston, June 25.—An imaginary fleet of war vessels bombarded the fort in Boston harbor yesterday, where 3,000 of the coast artillery corps and militia-men are encamped. Several thousand dollars had been spent in projectiles and the citizen gunners were yesterday given every opportunity to show their skill in warfare.

War was officially declared Tuesday, and orders were given to be in readiness to repulse the fleet of warships supposed to be lying outside the harbor. This morning at the call to arms the big guns boomed forth and war had begun in earnest.

The firing yesterday was directed at fixed targets, supposed to be war ships and tomorrow moving targets, also war ships will be brought into play. The work of the militia-men is comparing favorably with the shooting of the trained men of the forts.

CLASSES ARE ALL WRONG.

Declared George R. Kirkpatrick in Talk on Socialism Last Evening.

Prof. George R. Kirkpatrick of New York, a speaker under the auspices of the national socialist committee and former professor of economics at Ripon college, Wisconsin, gave a strong and graphic talk on Socialism at the city park last evening. Mr. Kirkpatrick is a man of strong personality, an eloquent and fluent speaker, and while he refrained from abuse and mud-slinging at his other political parties, he succeeded in keeping an audience of nearly 400 people interested for nearly two hours.

The speaker was introduced by John Carson of the local socialist club, candidate on the socialist ticket for lieutenant-governor.

In opening the speaker said that while all political parties were not agreed on all things, all were agreed on some things. They are not agreed because the method is all wrong. A method that divides men into two classes is wrong. No one man is good enough to be another man's master. The method that does not permit the worker to get his share of the prosperity is wrong, and under the present industrial system the working people do not get their share of the prosperity. He mentioned the fact that in one year $401,000,000 worth of food products were shipped to foreign countries and of this most was of the best quality, for the reason that the American workers do not receive enough in wages to give but a fair share of that which they produce.

More than one-half of the people of the country live in hired homes, one-third in mortgaged homes. Thirty-six per cent of the farms are hired and 20 and non-socialists are agreed that social ownership of some things ought to be as it is. For instance, the public ownership of the railroads, the public ownership of the coal and iron mines, the mills, railroads and oil wells.

And it is also conceded by all that the private ownership of some property does not make a man a master, as the ownership of a home, a horse or an automobile. But some forms of private ownership make individuals the absolute masters of other men's lives, as the owners of the coal and iron mines, the mills, railroads and oil wells.

Under the present conditions there are two classes, the owners and the workers, otherwise capital and labor; and the great wrong is that society is cut into these two classes. Capital owns the means of production and the jobs and therefore is the master of its employees.

The socialist party is the working-man's party and proposes to organize a party of the working class big enough to take possession of the powers of government and to reorganize society industrially on the following four lines:

"First, the social ownership of the chief material means of production."

"Second, the social control of the chief material means of production."

"Third, the operation of industry, not for profit, but for social service, each to have the full value of his labor, and have employment without permission of an industrial Caesar called capitalist, eager for profits."

"Fourth, a political party organized absolutely committed to this plan of industrial reconstruction, and as rapidly as possible built big enough to capture the powers of government that it may legally, quietly without violence, do what must be done."

"So far as society is organized now for the special benefit of that part of society, it is socially organized. The socialists seek to socialize the industrial foundations of society—socialize the ownership and the control and the purpose of the chief material means of production."

After a full hearing and discussion the board announced its choice of a subway scheme, the details of which are to be worked out at a meeting of the engineers July 10. It is understood that substantial alterations and improvements are to be made in the station itself.

EDITOR PHIL. HALVOSA
RUNNING FOR CONGRESSFormer Barre Man Announced Last Night That He is After Congressman
Foster's Place in First District.

Local labor men will be interested in the announcement that Phillip J. Halvosa, editor of the Vermont Union Signal published at Rutland, and a former resident of Barre, is a candidate for election to Congress from the first district in opposition to Congressman D. J. Foster. The announcement is made in the following:

Rutland, June 25.—An interesting factor was injected into the campaign for congressman in the last district last night when Phillip J. Halvosa, editor of the Union Signal, Vermont's only labor paper, declared that he will file nomination papers as an independent labor candidate for the office.

Mr. Halvosa has received assurances of support from prominent democrats and independent republicans and will make a speaking campaign. Thus far there is no democratic candidate for the nomination while Congressman D. J. Foster of Burlington, Frank L. Fish of Vergennes and Frederick G. Fleetwood of Morrisville seeks the republican nomination. The republican caucuses last week practically assured Mr. Foster of nomination.

Mr. Halvosa's announcement indicates that a strong fight will be waged against Mr. Foster for the first time in the history of the district. Should the Democratic convention endorse Halvosa to-day, it is considered probable that the other parties, including the newly-organized Independence League, will support him also.

Mr. Halvosa is 39 years of age and passed his early life at Westbury, N. Y., and Quincy, Mass., where he learned the trade of a granite currier; at Quincy he was president of the Granite Cutters' International union and chairman of all their strike committees.
